Pass Or Fail Grades For Student Teaching

Recommendation has come from the curriculum committee that a "Pass or Fail" system be used for marking senior student teaching. If implemented, this "Pass or Fail," together with supportive data, will be used in lieu of a letter grade.

This system was devised by the chairmen of student teaching centers and approved by the curriculum committee during the last school year. President Wilkins will bring the proposal before the council of Presidents, which will meet early in November for its approval.

According to Mr. Ramos, Director of Student Teaching and Placement, it is probable that this plan will not be approved in time for this year's senior student teaching. The cooperating school and teacher will submit their remarks according to the "Pass or Fail" system and the final letter grade will be made by the college supervisor.

During the first week in April, the evaluations of student teaching will be forwarded to counselors and students who may make an appointment to see their counselors to discuss these evaluations. The counselors will interpret the data to the student. If there is any question, the supervisor will be consulted by either the counselor or student.

Bond Issue Passage Urged by Stern

Mr. H. Willard Stern, of our Philosophy Department, spoke at an ACE-SEA meeting on why he feels that passage of the college bond issue is a must for New Jersey on Wednesday, October 21. The students of Newark State College should, Mr. Stern feels, know more about this vital issue which directly affects us.

By 1963, the 1959 bond issue which was expected to last until 1965, was depleted. In 1963, 40,000 high school students were graduated; by 1970 the expected amount is 70,000. In 1954, 30% of high school graduates went to college. This figure, in the meantime, has jumped to 40%.

The total of the bond issue will be $40 million. In terms of Newark State College, we will double our enrollment to 4,000, provide 45 new classrooms, a food service building, faculty offices, and a new library.

If passed, the $40 million will be worth $47 million. The state universities will be able to borrow another $7 million from the federal government, according to Mr. Stern.

Both the League of Women Voters and the PTA oppose the issue. They feel that this puts off a badly needed broad base tax. Mr. Stern says that it seems as if these organizations are willing to sacrifice educational opportunities until a broad base tax is established. They feel that the bond issue will put the state into debt.

The PTA and League of Women Voters are certain that the bond issue, if passed, will put off long term needs and we will need one again in another five years. These organizations believe, stated the speaker, that if the bond issue is defeated the situation will get so bad that citizens will become enraged and clamor for a broad base tax.

According to Mr. Stern, the taxpayer will not have to shoulder the cost. State inheritance taxes will be channeled to provide the $40 million. Even if the taxpayers would have to shoulder the cost, it would cost each approximately 30¢ per year or $9.00 for thirty years.

According to the State Legislature a broad base tax, which the PTA and League of Women Voters want, seems unlikely for at least the next two years.

Mr. Stern stated that he agrees with those who say that the Bond Issue is a minimum practical measure for temporary immediate use. However, he said, such a measure is desperately needed.

Sorority Begins "Help Week"

In lieu of traditional sorority hazing, this year Sigma Kappa Phi sorority pledges will turn "Hell Week" into "Help Week." Sigma Kappa Phi sorority has announced that they will forego the usual hazing for a new type of hazing which will serve the college, the faculty, and college organizations.

The sisters of EKØ are offering their pledges to be a free helping hand to any member of the faculty or to any student organization who wishes to participate as a recipient in "Help Week."

Each Sigma Kappa Phi pledge will serve a total of six hours from Wednesday, November 4, through Friday, November 6.

Any faculty member or any president of a student organization or club who wishes to avail themselves of free help in alphabetizing, filing, typing, clerical chores, stuffing mailboxes, etc., should contact Jackie Kirk, mailbox #356, by Oct. 30, 1964, supplying the following information:

Faculty or Organization; job you'd like done; approximate time needed to complete job; date or time job must be completed by; requestor; box or office.

Those requesting help will be contacted by Tuesday, Nov. 3.

Dr. Raichle Speaks on United Nations

Dr. Donald Raichle, history professor, spoke on the United Nations - Yesterday, Today, and Tomorrow, at a seminar sponsored by the Newark State Chapter of the Collegiate Council for the United Nations on Thursday, October 22. The seminar was in observance of the 19th anniversary of the United Nations.

Quoting from the preface to the last report of the General Assembly of the late Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld, Dr. Raichle stated that the United Nations "should be a force in the world to take action."

Some nations want the United Nations to be "a forum for debate and merely allow it to be a platform where the various nations of the world can come and can state their views about world situations." "Essentially," stated the speaker, "this would make the United Nations a debating platform." Dr. Raichle added that this is very clearly the view of the USSR and France.

The professor stressed the importance of majority rule for effectiveness of the organization. He stated that the majority of the 114 nations in the United Nations is still with the United States in policy, making an example of the rejection of Red

Freshman Final Elections To Be Reheld Thursday

First Final Ballot Declared Invalid

At 5:00 on Friday, October 23, 1964, Joe Grillo, Chairman of the Election Committee, declared the first ballot of the Class of 1968 elections invalid and void. In a statement released to the INDEPENDENT, Grillo stated "a percentage of the ballots used in the Freshman final election were declared counterfeit by the Election Committee. Due to this action, the entire final election has been invalidated."

The results of the Primary Election, however, were not contested and will be considered valid. No evidence of any such crime was detected on this ballot.

Grillo stated that "no significant voting trend was found on the counterfeit ballot." However, the exact number of counterfeit ballots could not be determined. A committee spokesman said that approximately twelve such ballots had been detected. The exact number of votes cast in the election was not determined due to the fact that as soon as the counterfeit ballots were detected the vote counting procedure stopped. Neither the total number of ballots collected nor the number of names of voters was checked.

Based on the evidence available, the Election Committee concluded that this act of injustice "was a crude prank." No accusations were made against any of the candidates on the final ballot.

The Election Committee has rescheduled the final election for Thursday, October 29. Grillo stated that "strong precautionary measures will be taken in the future to prevent any recurrences of this nature."

Presidential nominees for the class of 1968 are Michael Elkas and Larry Feinsod. Michael Elkas is an industrial arts major. At East Orange High School Michael served as president of his senior class, prom chairman, and was on Student Council Executive Board. Michael was also officer of Italian Club, usher, and member of yearbook staff. He was an active officer of C.Y.O. and received a C.Y.O. Achievement Award.

At Newark State Michael is a member of the Newman Club. He said that if elected he hopes "that the confidence placed in me will be used for the benefit of the class, now and through our next four years."

Larry Feinsod graduated from Columbia High School where he served as president of his home-room for three years consecutively. Larry was also a member of Student Council for three years, was officer on Fire Committee, Yearbook Committee, and played varsity soccer and basketball.

At Newark State Larry is member of the Young Democrats. Larry's primary goal, if elected, is "to unify the class into one, solid organization."

Young Dems at Newark State. At South Side Carl served as vice president of his senior class, was student organization representative, and was on yearbook staff. Carl was also a member of the Science Club and worked in the business office.

"I thank all voters who voted for me and I hope they will join with me to move the class toward

Frank Nero and Carl Stafford are the vice presidential nominees. Frank, majoring in science, is in the Theater Guild at Newark State and will attend the N.J. P.T.A. Conference in Atlantic City with that group. At North Plainfield High School Frank served on the Student Council and Class Cabinet for four years. He was chairman of the senior play, president of the Junior Fashion Show, and participated in wrestling and baseball. He was also vice president of C.Y.O. for two years.

Frank thanks all who supported him and said that if elected, "the main aim of the executive board is to organize the class and try to have a successful year in all we do."

Carl Stafford, a general elementary major, who graduated from South Side High School in Newark, is a member of the greater heights of organization," said Carl, if elected.

Nancy Kerr graduated from Union High School where she was treasurer of Spanish Club, Student Council representative, member of the F.T.A. Nancy also participated in intramural sports. At Newark State Nancy is a member of W.R.A. If elected, Nancy says she will try "to make this a successful class and one that will be remembered."

Sandy Long, general elementary major, graduated from Trenton High School where she was a cheerleader and layout editor of the newspaper. Sandy is a dorm student and says "everyone is friendly and easy to get along with."

For the office of Recording Secretary the nominees are Denise Clark and Linda Levy. Denise

FRESHMAN ELECTION

Freshman elections -- try again. A short dissertation on the smelling of rats, or the marine life in Denmark, should be in order. The "facts" are known; the election committee has made its statement and proposed a motive for the indiscretion. However, there are some quite obvious questions that have gone unanswered or have been, at best, circumnavigated.

Firstly, as to the motive: isn't it a little far-fetched that a party or parties would go to all the trouble to (1) duplicate the paper used in the ballots; (2) duplicate the style of print used, and (3) duplicate the exact layout used in such a manner that when two ballots, a bogey and an original, are held together under a strong light the majority correspond exactly, solely for a prank? According to the election chairman after the counterfeits were discovered, the tallying was stopped, and the election postponed. There was a relatively small percentage of bogey ballots discovered. At the time they were recognized, however, NO FURTHER COUNTING TOOK PLACE; which means the exact number of counterfeits is not known.

Also, there is no tentative tally of votes which should show something. (Joe Grillo, election chairman, of the fake ballots counted, no preference to any candidate was shown.) Without the number of ballots collected, there can be no comparison with the number of names registered as voting, too, an indication lodging no blame and making no accusations this editorial shall end with an appropriate ---- ?

"DANA"

Dear Editor:
Dana Review is a publication of the Dana staff, an organization that is interested in fostering the creative talents of students. The magazine is a compendium of ideas and imagery that have been presented to the staff for publication. Our primary aim is to foster an attitude of critical analysis of literature and poetry. We hope that through this dynamic process an evolution of ideas will result that will enable students to achieve a deeper understanding of literary values. We welcome the interest or aid of anyone wishing to assist in the development of this creative process. Persons who are interested should contact mail box #673.

"UGH"

It is generally known that a barbarian element exists in this college, but it came as a surprise to me to find that there is at least one instructor included in that group. There are times, being late to a class or meeting, when it is necessary to move through the halls at a faster pace than usual. In doing so, it is unavoidable that you jostle someone's arm, which results in a quick apology by the jostler and, usually, an indignant stare from the jostlee. However, this is not always the case; this is my experience.

While doing my best to keep an appointment, I moved through the hall in the art wing at a reasonably quick pace. It was at the middle of the "hall" that I committed the gross iniquity of brushing against the arm of some "instructor." I kept walking, apologies trailing behind me. "Oh, the wrath of Achilles," this so-called adult stood in the middle of the hall, hands upon hips, and shouted a threat, repeat a threat; if I dared to transgress a second time he would "use the elbow" (I brushed his elbow). This can only be interpreted as a threat for literal physical assault; this from an "instructor" -- a COLLEGE instructor! For this neanderthal I have only pity.

"WISE DUTCHMAN"

Before the whole campus gets the impression that the freshmen disgraced us at Princeton, I feel obliged to say a few words in their defense.

On the bus in which I rode the freshmen were not only inoffensive but courteous, considerate fellow passengers. In the theatre, where my seat at the back permitted me a good view of the audience, I saw little to deplore and much to commend. (Some of the behavior might be described as 'young'.)

For the peace of mind of our disgruntled seniors and for their future serenity as teachers, let me say three things. First, in a body of 800 people (of any age) there are always a few who are not models of discretion and decorum. Second, the young come to us to be taught. If they were perfect, we would go to them for instruction. Third, as the wise Dutchman said, "Ve ist too soon old and too late smart." How wonderfully different you seniors would be if you could go back and be freshmen again.

With cordial recollection of the freshmen you used to be,

SEX I

Dear Editor:

In regard to the article "Chaplain Condones Pre-marital Sex" -- A-Okay! It is about time that someone expressed his views without being afraid of society's condemnation! It is about time this opinion was able to be expressed in college newspapers. Good work, Reverend Gerald W. Paul.

SEX II

Open Letter to the Student Body of Newark State College:

This is not a commentary on the "Pre-marital Sex Relations" article. The comments have been made and the information interpreted - and misinterpreted. Neither is this letter designed to discuss the desirability of publishing an article of this type in this newspaper. However, as an older adult member of the student body, I do not feel I can stand by and watch you young people being sold down the river by those people who consider chastity before marriage and the disciplining of sexual drives archaic mistakes.

This is no crusade. I have no "cause." I only realize that happily married men and women have been remiss. You have never seen the other side of the coin, and the results of your indiscriminate sex behavior may lay at our feet.

The marriage ceremony speaks for itself. When two persons become one, and achieve mutual happiness through the complete giving of ones self - yes, even to the degree of losing ones self, then and only then, does the sex act reach its real climax. For theirs' is a total union that goes on in all phases of living together, a continuous giving and receiving - not taking. With this total love, ready to control itself to meet the other's needs, comes the realization that there never could be more than this.

But, I forgot, the sex relationships of happily married people are never discussed in public. Society frowns upon it. It just isn't being done. And so, you have never experienced it, you never know about this ultimate in relationships.

Don't let sex freedom advocates sell you the idea of the therapeutic values of sexual release; as such, it is neither tranquilizer nor panacea. Even if we could provide you with completely protective contraceptive methods, and guarantee no pregnancies; even if we could erase venereal diseases, premarital sex relations in the long run would prove disastrous. Its practice would destroy the stability of the structure of a secure family life and the sanctity of marriage. We are not primitives, nor barbarians; our individual well being depends on these aspects of our living.

There is a case for chastity before marriage. These are the facts.

Clark is a general elementary major and member of the Young Dems at Newark State. She graduated from North Plainfield High School where she was on Student Council (four years), a member of Class Cabinet, and Dramatics Club. Denise was also recorder of majorettes, and student secretary of Y.W.C.A.

Denise commented, "I met a lot of people campaigning and I enjoyed meeting all of them. I hope that all who either win or lose will continue to support the school and class."

Linda Levy is a graduate of Edison High School, Edison. At Edison Linda was in Academy of Science and Future Homemakers of America. Linda, a general elementary major, is a member of the Guides Club and a dorm student. She says she will "do the best I can if elected."

Francine Lewis and Ellen Rozyla are running for the office of Corresponding Secretary. Francine graduated from Union High School where she was a member of F.T.A., Class Congress, Leaders Club, Social Family Relations Club, and Student Council Finance Committee. Francine also participated in girls athletics. If elected, Francine said, she would "serve my class to the best of my ability."

Ellen Rozyla, an early childhood major, graduated from Irvington High School. In high school Ellen was a member of F.T.A., Press Bureau, Psychology Club, and served on newspaper. She was also an active member of S.G.A. and participated in W.R.A. She is a member of the ACE-SEA at Newark State. Commenting on the election, Ellen stated, "I have made many friends in campaigning and am grateful to all who have helped me and supported me."

Party Platforms In Review

By Richard L. Madden of The Herald Tribune Staff

The job of a political party platform is to point with pride (if that party happens to be running the existing administration) or to view with alarm (if the party is out of office and wants back in).

Here is a comparison of the prideful pointing and the viewing with alarm and some of the pledges for the future - and the differences in the two platforms:

FOREIGN POLICY

DEMOCRATS: "The world is closer to peace today than it was in 1960. . . Responsible leadership, unafraid but refusing to take needless risks, has turned the tide in freedom's favor. No nation, old or new, has joined the Communist bloc since Cuba during the preceding Republican administration. . . International communism has lost its unity and momentum."

REPUBLICANS: "The Democratic administration has been, from its beginning, not the master, but the prisoner of major events. The will and dependability of its leadership, even for the defense of the free world, have come to be questioned in every area of the globe."

AGRICULTURE

DEMOCRATS: The platform pledged a continuance of commodity, consumer and community programs "to achieve the goals of higher incomes to the farm and ranch, particularly the family-sized farm, lower prices for the consumer, and lower costs to the government."

REPUBLICANS: The Administration "has strangled the Republican rural development program with red tape and neglected its most essential ingredient, local initiative." It pledged to "provide our farmers who have contributed so much to the strength of our nation, with the maximum opportunity to exercise their own management decisions on their own farms, while resisting all efforts to impose upon them further Federal controls."

CIVIL RIGHTS

DEMOCRATS: "The Civil Rights Act of 1964 deserves and requires a full observance by every American and fair, effective enforcement if there is any default. . . We reaffirm our belief that lawless disregard for the rights of others is wrong -- whether used to deny equal rights or to obtain equal rights."

REPUBLICANS: We pledge "full implementation and faithful execution of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, and all other civil rights statutes, to assure equal rights and opportunities guaranteed by the Constitution to every citizen. . . Improvements of civil rights statutes adequate to changing needs of our times."

RISK OF WAR

DEMOCRATS: "The complication and dangers in our restless, constantly changing world require of us consummate understanding and experience. One rash act, one thoughtless decision, one unchecked reaction -- and cities could become smoldering ruins and farms parched wasteland."

REPUBLICANS: "A dynamic strategy aimed at victory -- pressing always for initiatives for freedom, rejecting always appeasement and withdrawal -- reduces the risk of nuclear war. It is a nation's vacillation, not firmness, that temps an aggressor into war. It is accommodation, not opposition, that encourages a hostile nation to remain hostile and to remain aggressive."

DEFENSE

DEMOCRATS: "By the end of 1960, military strategy was being shaped by the dictates of arbitrary budget ceilings instead of the real needs of national security. . . Since then, and at the lowest possible cost, we have created a balanced, versatile, powerful defense establishment, capable of countering aggression across the entire spectrum of conflicts, from nuclear confrontation to guerrilla subversion."

REPUBLICANS: "This administration has delayed research and development in advanced systems and thus confronted the American people with a fearsome possibility that Soviet advances, in the decade of the 1970's, may surpass America's present lead. Its misuse of 'cost effectiveness' has stifled the creativity of the nation's military, scientific, and industrial communities. . . It has failed to originate a single new major strategic weapons system. . . It has not demonstrated the foresight necessary to prepare a strategic strength which in future years will deter war."

EXTREMISM

DEMOCRATS: "We condemn extremism, whether from the Right or Left, including the extreme tactics of such organizations as the Communist party, the Ku Klux Klan and the John Birch Society. We know what violence can do. We have seen the tragic consequences of misguided zeal and twisted logic."

REPUBLICANS: Platform made no mention of extremism and the convention rebuffed minority efforts to write in a plank condemning extremist organizations.

NUCLEAR ARMS

DEMOCRATS: "Control of the use of nuclear weapons must remain solely with the highest elected official in the country -- the President of the United States."

REPUBLICANS: The platform did not get into the issue directly. Sen. Goldwater has suggested that NATO commanders be given more leeway in the use of tactical nuclear weapons. The platform did pledge as "a keystone of Republican foreign policy, to revitalize the Alliance."

FEDERAL AID

DEMOCRATS: "The Federal government exists not to grow larger, but to enlarge the individual potential and achievement of the people. The Federal government exists not to subordinate the states, but to support them."

REPUBLICANS: Pledged a "critical re-examination and major overhaul of all Federal grant-in-aid programs with a view to channeling such programs through the states, discontinuing those no longer required and adjusting others in a determined effort to restore the unique balance and creative energy of the traditional American system of government."

Review:

MFQ Beats Beatles

By Mike Lussen

Newark State was treated last Sunday night to one of the hottest new groups on the folk scene: The Modern Folk Quartet. Cyrus Faryar, Tad Diltz, Chip Douglas, and Jerry Yester gave us a sound which was vibrant with the basic folk beat, finely toned professional polish, and a sense of pervading sincerity, which is essential in communicating with an audience on a musical level.

The Modern Folk Quartet creates a unique sound, not only by virtue of its fine range, vocally, but also because of the jazz harmonies which it blends so effectively into the material; hence the term 'Modern.' For the most part, this "jazz effect" worked quite well, and was a refreshing change. Other times, however, it seemed superfluous, perhaps even detracted from the beauty of the arrangement. The "modern" touch, for example, didn't appear to fit in especially well with "Amanda Blaine," a haunting Civil War ballad which was written recently; on the other hand, it worked very well on "It was a very good year." Finally, the "Modern folk" music never lost its "gutsy," hard-driving appeal on the up tempo numbers.

Since at least two of the members of the quartet closely resemble the Beatles (they wore their hair that way before the Beatles became known), this reporter felt impelled to get the group's reaction on the boys from Liverpool. Question: does the success of the Beatles threaten popularity of folk music, particularly with regard to the collegiate set? Cyrus Faryar answered with a resounding "no" followed by agreement from his three cohorts.

They feel that the popularity of the Beatles grew largely out of the impetus set forth by the Folk-idiom; further that the Beatles project the same type of "honesty," a similar creative "message," and a technical quality which seems to have as much in common with folk music as it does with Rock and Roll. (You will also notice that one can even understand most of the words.) In short, Mr. Faryar believes that the Beatles and their somewhat questionable imitators can co-exist with the folk world, with no damage to either faction. Be that as it may, the sensitive observer might suspect that the promotion sign outside the cafeteria which read: "Modern Folk quartet -- (better than) The Beatles," was indeed an accurate description. ---- Bravo!

LBJ Wins Straw Poll

CHAMPAIGN, ILL. (CPS) — Lyndon Johnson beat Barry Goldwater by a margin of nearly 2 to 1 in mock elections held on the campuses of five Big Ten universities.

Johnson was preferred by 14,111 students at the five schools while Goldwater was the choice of 7,553. The straw vote was a striking reversal of the 1960 Big Ten mock election, which saw Richard Nixon trounce John Kennedy 21,034 to 15,058.

Five schools -- Michigan State, Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, and Northwestern -- participated in the balloting.

Johnson piled up his biggest lead at Michigan State, where 9,432 students took part in the voting. The President got 6,610 votes to Goldwater's 2,822.

Goldwater came closest to victory at Northwestern where Johnson edged him out by a scant 98 votes, 1,270 to 1,172. The only other place where the margin between the two candidates was under 100 votes was at Minnesota, where less than 1,000 students participated, and the President beat his Republican opponent 435 to 353.

At the University of Illinois, Johnson won 3,570 to 2,084, while GOP gubernatorial candidate Charles Percy beat out Democratic Governor Otto Kerner, 3,510 to 2,125.

At the University of Iowa, it was Johnson 2,226 - Goldwater, 1,161.

Whether mock elections on campus indicate electoral trends in their states is questionable, since many of the students participating in them are not old enough to vote and there is no way of telling if they accurately reflect their parents' opinions.

Football

Last Wednesday the seniors and freshmen played to a tie in an old-fashioned knock-down, drag-out game. In the process the seniors clinched the championship that they have been seeking for four years. Although the freshmen managed to stifle the outstanding but overworked passing combination of Joe Tomaselli to either Al Leiter, Dave Chinchar or John Vitiello, they (the freshmen) could not pick up an offensive first down. The huge senior defensive line, consisting of Richie Tedesco, Chuck Carter, Dave O'Rielly, and Dave Rowlands spent the afternoon in the freshman backfield. This massive line so dominated the action that early in the game the seniors decided to play a conservative game. Thus, the seniors were actually playing for the tie.

This strategy almost backfired when late in the fourth quarter, Tom Ziolkowski intercepted a windblown pass and returned it to the senior ten-yard line. However, the senior defensive unit quickly rose to the occasion and threw the freshmen back. The game was marked by outstanding kicking on both sides. Dave O'Reilly averaged forty-five yards per kick while freshman Jake Davis averaged thirty-seven yards.

The freshmen, sophomores and juniors all gained one satisfaction out of playing football this year -- that being they will not have to play the seniors anymore.

Sport's Desk

By Bill Gargiles

There have been quite a few things bothering students and myself concerning athletics. It is about time that these problems are brought out in the open and some kind of action taken against them.

First off, the problem of school spirit is again at the top of the list. The same faces are seen at every soccer game. The loyal supporters are few. The statements made after the game concern the score. If people would concern themselves with the type of team hustle and aggressive ability rather than the score, maybe the soccer team will be better supported. Freshmen ask, "what is there to do on campus?", the people who attend the games seem to find something to do and they are attaining popularity for themselves and have no trouble being with the "in" crowd.

The second problem concerns food. It has been brought to my attention that a number of athletes have been refused second portions for the evening meal in the cafeteria. As long as these people pay their $1.25 for a lilliportion meal, I don't see any reason for the refusal of seconds. The food that is left over (and there is a lot of it) is used for salads, meat-loaf, etc. I realize that the staff of Slater Food is working on a tight budget but why should Slater slaughter your guts. Mr. Morrison, the head of the Slater staff at Newark State, is willing to help and has offered help, but when he is not around, the complexion of matters changes for the worse.

The third problem concerns the people who sign up for athletic committees and events and never show up. There are a certain group of people doing all the work and publishing games, getting sports information, etc. The Booster Club is facing this problem now. A number of people who have signed up did not show up for the first meeting and in fact did not even notify the chairman that they would not be there.

Squire Soccer

By Bill Gargiles

Newark State's injury-ridden soccer team took the field unsuccessfully three times last week. The games were bitterly played but it has become obvious to all that the Squires lack a consistent punch. The Squires have been shut out in all but one of their games and even lacked scoring opportunities. We can attribute part of this failure to the loss of certain key men due to injury, and the ineffectiveness of others due to small and aggravating injuries.

Monmouth College 'visited' the Union campus for a game last Tuesday, where the Squire supporters witnessed a very poorly officiated game. The 'fellows' from Monmouth seemed content to lie on the ground and complain to the officials every time a Newark Stater brushed him. This led to some very amusing sights. Also adding to the amusement was the comedy put on by the 'foreign speaking' Monmouth fullback and Monmouth coach. Two of the Squire starters were warned in the first few minutes of the game that the next time they bumped into a Monmouth player they would be watching the game from the bench. The official took the attitude that these two players should act like mummies for the rest of the game.

All in all, though, it was a good game for the spectators, and another outstanding crowd is expected for the final two home games against Montclair State and Bloomfield.

The prediction for the Paterson State game was a recommendation to bring baseball bats, clubs, and any other weapon one might own. In previous years the game had turned into a slugfest, the home field being the chief advantage involved, so that the home team would win. This year was entirely different; the game was cleanly played and hard fought down to the waning seconds. The final score was 1-0, but both teams had chances at raising the score.

Newark State has the spirit, drive, determination and hustle, but lacks the skills.

The Squires, with a playing squad of thirteen, set out for Glassboro State College on Saturday, October 17, when everything went wrong for them: the weather was inclement, some of the players arrived late at the gym, the bus taking them to the game was a remodeled Sherman tank with a maximum speed of 50 mph. With all these factors against NSC, the team played a fine, hustling game, which even if lost, gained a lot of admiration and respect from opposing coaches and players. The final score was 6-1, but, as stated, the score was no indication of the caliber of the game. The lone goal for the Squires was scored by Bill Grier on a penalty kick resulting from Steve Friedman being pushed while beginning to shoot at the goal. Here is Newark State's starting unit:

Center Forward	Bill Grier
Right Inside	John Gluck
Right Outside	John Erb
Ctr. Halfback	Paul Minarchenko
Right Halfback	Mike Smith
Right Fullback	Bill Gargiles
Goalie	Doug Williams

WRA News

Recently there has been a changed attitude toward sports which is recreational. There has been an increasing tendency to include such sports in the activity program of many schools and colleges.

Recreational sports include a variety of activities for many girls of varying abilities. There is also a high degree of adaptability of these sports to a variety of situations which gives them a wide appeal to the students. The fact that these recreational sports are so adaptable to various informal situations makes it possible to take part in time with little preliminary arrangement. Skills are an outgrowth of this sport, not a prerequisite.

What are some of the values to girls of such a program of recreational sports? In general, they will learn many fundamental skills which may later develop into hobbies or vocations. These activities provide for progressive development and will result in satisfaction of achievement.

Some of the millions of our "space age" population do not know what to do with their leisure time. Recreational sports not only serve as an important part of our leisure life, but provide us with a form of relaxation. Man has an inborn capacity for recreation, and through these sports and games we can learn to control, influence, and improve upon the physical, social, and psychological development of man.
